

I studied design and art history in college, and for 20 years worked as a graphic designer. This provided me a wonderful creative outlet. However, I felt a true void and only within painting has that void been filled. I joined the Painted Ladies Art Studio and work with wonderful, smart and talented women who encouraged me to grow and developed as an artist. I consider myself, for the most part, self taught. My acrylic collage series allows me to display the many different layers of the world. I love texture and color. I hope the viewer will discover the individual beauty/layer of each piece. You can see my work in my studio at 485 N. Front Street, Issaquah. At Issaquah's first Friday ArtWalk, and on my FaceBook page. I also teach small groups and private art lessons.
