

Sweney Kuo

sweney@gmail.com
www.sweneystudio.com

As a photographer, I tell stories of other people and places with my photographs, images that I have captured during extensive travels on five continents and more than forty countries.

I originally from Taiwan. Before I moved to US, I have taught Digital art and Design at University in Taiwan 8 years. I have been working in the photographic medium since I was an Arts school student in College.

My photographic work has always involved images in narrative and travel photography. Travel and photography simply go together for me. I have traveled to five continents and more than forty countries. In photography grew out of my wish to record what I saw during my travels to the developing world. Through the camera eye allowed me to look inside the lives, cultures, and different life stories. Meeting people from other communities and other countries. The world has helped me understand that all of our lives are at once interconnected and individual.